

China Makes the World Better

Recently, a documentary named "Amazing China" has sparked a violent discussion all over the world. As a Chinese, I am extraordinarily proud to share with you my intensive emotions for my motherland, a great country, The People's Republic of China.

Of all the magnificent feats, the Belt and Road is absolutely the most impressive. "The Belt and Road's" strategic goal is to establish a mutual political trust, economic integration and cultural inclusive community of interests. As we all know, the most prominent problem of global development is uneven development between North and South. China is going to break the vast gap between the rich and the poor, which will not only improve the indigenous people's life but solve the problem of uneven regional development. This is an all-win result.

China's high-speed rail technology is in the lead in the world now. But at the beginning of reform and opening-up, transportation restricts the national economy. With the development of railway technology, especially high-speed rail. Now, high-speed rail has played a vital role in national economy and reducing environmental pollution. It has also been exported to foreign countries such as Indonesia. With no doubt, China has made great success and surpasses other countries. This is one thing we should all feel proud of it!

Mobile payment is another key label that many foreigners can think out about China. Beyond question, it is very convenient for everyone to use a phone to pay everywhere, even at streets. Besides, many foreigners have used it, also says this is the most wanted thing they are desirous to take back home. Of course, we have all been benefited from it, right?

From above, we can clearly perceive that great changes have taken place in China. What's more, China is now presenting a powerful comprehensive national strength and spreading a more favourable image of the country.
